

BOW VALLEY RESOURCE

Including Arrowwood, Milo, Queenstown, Shouldice and Mossleigh

Volume 4, No. 20.

ARROWWOOD, ALTA., JAN. 10, 1935

Subscription $2.00, U.S.A. $5.00

League Formed

At a recent meeting of representatives, the Blackfoot League, composed of Milo, Red Cross, Arrowwood, and the Deerfoot Miners was formed. The aim of the League is to maintain a winter interest in the sporting winter sport. Officers elected were:

Pres.—Carlyle Sutton, Milo
Vice-Pres.—Mr. Chevalier, Milo
Secy.—Mr. Lewenden, Milo

Exe.—Mr. Lewenden, Milo

J. Campbell, Deerfoot

T. Love, Red Cross

D. Thornton, Milo

Each team in the League will meet the other in home and home games and upon the completion of the schedule a playoff series will be arranged for the league championship.

Blackfoot Hockey League Schedule

Jan. 12—Red Cross at Arrowood
Jan. 13—Arrowood at Indians
Jan. 14—Milo at Red Cross
Jan. 15—Milo at Red Cross
Jan. 18—Arrowood at Milo
Jan. 19—Red Cross at Indians
Jan. 22—Indians at Arrowood
Jan. 23—Red Cross at Milo
Jan. 26—Arrowood at R. Cross
Jan. 29—Indians at Milo
Feb. 1—Indians at Red Cross
Feb. 1—Milo at Arrowood

Buffalo Hill News

The Annual Meeting of the Ratepayers of the Buffalo School District No. 1700, will be held at the Schoolhouse on Saturday, Jan. 12th, at 2 p.m. for the election of a trustee and other business. A full attendance is desired.

Launch Campaign To Aid Dominion Scout Movement

Launching a campaign to raise funds for the extension of the Boy Scout movement in Canada. His Excellency the Governor-General "will address a vast audience Friday evening at 6:55 o'clock over the coast-to-coast network of the Canadian Radio Commission.

There will be service in the Catholic Church Sunday morning at 9:30.

Social Credit Meeting Largely Attended

A very vivid and impressive picture of existing financial, social and economic conditions was painted on Monday night in Phillips Hall by Mr. Unwin, speaking on social credit. A large crowd was in attendance to hear the message which this Social Credit representative had to give and those who were fortunate enough to be on hand were treated to a timely word picture of the present condition.

Mr. Unwin in a very talented manner pointed out that the people of Alberta would have a wonderful opportunity this June to remedy present depressive conditions, provided they intelligently used their franchise. The speaker clearly explained the working of social credit and in an emphatic manner showed how the present monetary system was defective. With social credit in force, Mr. Unwin was assured that Alberta's prosperity would be restored and that the people of Alberta would enjoy happiness to an unlimited degree.

Upon the conclusion of the meeting a local study group was organized to acquaint the people of the Arrowood district with every detail of the system. The officers are as follows:

Pres.—Mr. L. H. Irwin
Vice-Pres.—Mr. E. Lewenden
and J.V. P.—Mr. R. Anderson
Sec.—Mr. T. S. Board

Preparations for the local Bonsipol are being made and those who are thinking of entering same are asked to get their names in as soon as possible. This will be a purely local affair and the Annual Open Bonsipol will be held later, see the President for particulars.

Wanted to talk to a man who is desirous of entering the Radio and Television Industry as a life career. Experience unnecessary; but must be willing to devote some spare time to practical instructions under America's foremost engineers. For personal interview apply giving age, present occupation and telephone No. to Vocational Advisor, Box 34, Resource Offices.

Arrowwood Notes

The next Altar Society Card Party will be held on Jan. 16.

Irwin Scott returned home Thursday, after spending a few days with his folks at Vulcan.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Parnell and children are away to England on a holiday.

See (1) the league opener on Saturday night, Red Cross vs Arrowood;

(2) The Indians vs Arrowood Jan. 22nd.

The Arrowood Community Club will pay $100.00 cash for a piano in good condition, for particulars apply to Mrs. R. H. Bishop, Convenor.

FOR SALE—Potatoes, large home grown, also milk cows, fresh and due to freshen soon. Enquire at Resource Office.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. H. Vooy, of Mossleigh, on Monday Jan. 7th, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Reist and four children of Carslairs, visited on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 31 and Jan. 1 at the Wieand home in Arrowood. Mrs. Reist is a cousin of Mrs. Wieand.

Miss Marion Coleman has returned from St. Paul, Minn., where she has been attending Bethlehem Academy, and is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Coleman. Miss Coleman will return to the States later when she will resume her course in journalism.

Mr. Frank Johnson and son Irwin, visited at Okotoks and Brant on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Hockey Notes

Indians 1—Arrowood 3

The first game of the season was played Fri., Dec. 28 at the local rink between the Deerfoot Indians and the Arrowood Cardinals. From the beginning it was evident that the game would be a close check affair.

Chief Beagle put the Cardinals in the lead when he beat the Indians with a singeing shot. The Indians came back strong and evened the score before the first period ended. The second period was scoreless. The Cardinals put forth every effort in the third period however and in the last three minutes of play scored two goals, from the sticks of F. Mason and C. Norton.

Indians 1—Arrowood 5

Fully confident of evening their previous defeat the Deerfoot Indians opposed the Cardinals at Gleichen New Year's night. The larger ice surface was the cause of much suspense and the odds seemed to favor the Miners. With the opening of the first period however, the game developed into a fast encounter and the hopes of the Redskins were somewhat shattered when Mason and Norton combined to score two goals in rapid succession. The Cardinals added two more in the second and one more in the third, to run up a five-goal lead before the Indians were able to tally their lone goal. A large crowd of fans were on hand to see the game.

Deerfoot—Jack Royal, Tom Stuhdorff, Dlavally, P. Ranning, Rabbit, W. Cutler, P. Bear Hat, Moses McGuire, Sam Cowchild, D. Yellow Horse, One Gun.

Cardinals—Sharpe, C. Beagle, N. Dumka, E. Mason, F. Mason, C. Norton, McCullough, S. Beagle, B. Oliver, Assteline.

Mossleigh 10—Arrowood 11 A record crowd was on hand Wednesday night to see the Mossleigh club in action against the local hockey team. Advance reports from the western village indicated a keen tussle but the goal tally in the Mossleigh club taking a 11-0 drubbing.

Handicapped by the non-appearance of goalie Hanson the Mossleigh team set up a game fight and with a solid goalie the score would have been considerably different. On the evenings performance however the Cardinals were far superior and deserved full credit for the single club victory.

The first period opened somewhat slow and the Cardinals seemed a little weary from the previous nights encounter with the Indians. However Stuart Beagle and C. Norton bulged the hump twice to give the Cardinals a lead 2-0. In the second period the Cardinals had a full day and scored six goals to increase the lead 8-0. The Mossleigh club tried hard but were bottlenecked on nearly every occasion when they attempted to beat goalie Sharpe. In the third period the locals increased the lead to 11 while the Mossleigh club were held scoreless.

Miss Marion Coleman, R. McCombe, D. McClellan, R. Leslie, J. Leslie, C. Christie, R. Elkins, Weeler

(Continued on page 4)

Popular Nurse Dies Post of Duty

The Arrowood and Gleichen districts were greatly shocked on Dec. 29, when Miss Olive May Holland passed away at her home east of Arrowood, after suffering from typhoid fever for about three weeks. The deceased, through kindness and sense of duty was nursing at the Salter home when the malady was contracted.

Miss Olive Holland was very popular in the district, having spent practically her entire life in the vicinity. She was a graduate of the Gleichen school, and in 1929 she entered the Calgary General Hospital to graduate in 1932. While training, Olive was a favorite among the nurses, and this high feeling of esteem was expressed when six nurses, members of her graduating class, attended the funeral and as a body.

Miss Holland was 24 years of age and leaves a loving mother Mrs. Riddell, a step-father Mr. Riddell, a sister Florence Wilson, a brother Eddie Holland, and three brothers Albert, Robert and Floyd Riddell.

Funeral services were held New Years Day at Gleichen United Church by the Rev. V. M. Gilbert. The church was filled to capacity, and some sixty cars made up the cortege. The pall bearers were schoolmates—Hugh James, Stuart Hayes, Bell, N. McMullan, H. Salter and C. Sammons.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the centre of the car away from the rear end and away from the bumpers.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

A New Ford V-8 That Brings New Beauty,

New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding

Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

The result is Centriflex—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves from seven to eight miles faster with perfect safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal. A new type of emergency clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency of higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of over a million owners. There are refinements but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8 with 200 horsepower and 85 miles an hour.

We invite you to see this New Ford V-8 at the showroom of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—it drives you! You will find it a new experience in motoring.

Ford V-8 Prices Are Low

11 BODY TYPES—Coupe (5 windows), $645; Tudor Sedan, $665; Fordor Sedan, $750; DE LUXE—Roadster (with rumble seat), $115; Coupe (2 windows), $720; Phaeton, $725; Tudor Sedan, $720; Cabriolet (with rumble seat), $725; Tudor Sedan, $725; Tudor Sedan, $725; SEDANS, with built-in trunk—Tudor Touring Sedan, $780; Tudor Coupe, $780.

(F. O. B. East Wheeler, Ontario, Bumper, space and taxes extra. Small down payment. Convenient terms.)

BE SURE TO SEE THE NEW FORD V-8 1½-TON AND 2-TON HEAVY-DUTY TRUCKS . . . AND THE NEW COMMERCIAL CARS

THE TENDERFOOT

By
GEORGE B. RODNEYAuthor of "The Coronado Trail",
"The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've been half to a half-shade in plenty of trouble," the lawless told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur had been systematically looting the ranch, and he was getting his partner, he's drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go after what was happening, but he had to trust Gerald Keene, half owner of the Hour-Glass Ranch, as well as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward salaried office.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector, had returned to the town of Dustin, where Spike Goodland, owner of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him on his discovery of the gold vein, had given him a share of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rusting Hour-glass cattle and protects them.

Spike Goodland and Sam Dustin, fearing the old prospector might talk about his secret, had planned the branding of Carr's cattle, plot to get him to show them the location of the gold vein, and then kill him.

Gerald Keene, dressed in a ridiculous cowboy costume, arrived at the Hour-glass ranch and is hired as a cook by Joe Corse. "The arrival of a tenderfoot is successful, and he is accepted as such by the other occupants."

"Proof of Dustin's cattle rustling activities was accidentally discovered by Spike Goodland, who found Edith Carr was riding fence a long way from the Hour-glass ranch house."

Dustin, who has been following along and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions the Soda Springs dispute and is set by her to bring him up with Dustin of the Broken Spur?

"Have you lied to me?"

"You see, Stone," said Crewe amicably, "we know old Kane. He's a hardy old fellow who's been too busy to make it in the hills for twenty years. The only thing against him is that he's been mixed up with Dustin."

"Wait a minute. I'll show you just how much I know about Kane and Dustin," Stone thrust a hand into his pocket, pulled out an envelope and flung it before Carr. The old ranchman opened it and read and his eyes bulged.

"For God's sake," he said sharply. "This letter is to me from my partner Gerald Keene. . . . Where'd you get this?" he demanded sharply.

"If you had this letter of introduction from my partner, why didn't you give it to me before this?"

"It's a letter recommending me for a job," said Stone coolly. "I got the job, so I didn't need the letter. If you're refused me the job, I'd have given you the letter."

"We've been trying for a long time to get you a job," said Carr. "We haven't been able to get his address. Can you give it to us?"

"Yes, I can tell you where to reach him. I will do better than that. I'll get you a job which will bring him home. In fact—"

Stone stopped short of disclosure. Something might yet turn up that would make that disclosure premature. Better wait till the very last. It could always be done. He felt, too, that Carr might feel that he was a spy in their camp. He turned to Crewe.

"I'd like it understood," he said. "I talked more to you than I have to Mr. Carr or even to Miss Edith. I found that notebook up in Red Water. You were the one who showed it to old man Kane and I don't know a thing about him. If he's a partner of Dustin, that damns him with me. You both know how I stand with Dustin. Myself, if you want to see to it, you can send a telegram to Keene that'll put him on the job as soon as he can get here."

"Get the horses," said Carr shortly. "Crewell's ride with you."

In ten minutes Stone was back with the horses and they took off at a dead run that ate the miles. They came into Seco as the sun was dropping and during that ride Stone thought much but spoke little. It was time indeed, he felt, for him to take his own personality into account. He had been asked which to base a charge against Dustin. Sam Dustin was known throughout the valley. Men, even those who did not like him, would rather support him because that is the way of men. Carr, feeding Soda Springs, had shown much of the affection he formerly commanded. No. Decidedly this was no time to drop his disguise. Let them think he was Duro Stone till Gerald Keene should come.

"Let the other side do the talking," went on Crewe. "The man who takes most has got least excuse for what happened."

He rese, pocketed his pipe and strode into the house, and Stone went off to the bunk-house where he was greeted with a shower of hot water. Lee, who had been sent to straighten up the stables, came back incognito.

"Your damned saddle was all over the place, Duro," he said. "I shifted it to another peg." He whispered something to Baines that Stone wrote his message and said it across the counter. That message simply said: " he went to the door. It was Crewe shouting for him.

"Come at once. Your services needed."

"You want—," he shouted. "Mr. Stone, I want to see you again."

Stone stopped the steps. Crewe met him with a grave face and motioned to a chair while old Carr fretted and fumed across the desk.

"Sit down, Stone. . . ."

"I'm awfully sorry for a pay roll on trust," he said. "I didn't know a damned thing about you. I didn't ask for references. Look at this."

He flung on the table the little red ledger that Stone had picked up.

"I'm afraid that Stone had picked it up."

Stone took it and examined it carefully. He knew it had been in his saddle-bags two hours before. It ought to be there now. But did this collie mean about a notebook that he had left behind him? Carr went on and traced himself into wrath as men do.

"I shifted your saddlebags tonight and that book fell out," he said.

"Where'd you get it?"

"I got it to old man Kane. . . ."

began Stone.

"I know that. I know, too, that Kane is being financed by Dustin of the Broken Spur. You can't carry water in one bucket, Stoner. Stone, you have to work with Stone. What have you got to do with Dustin of the Broken Spur? Have you lied to me?"

"You see, Stone," said Crewe amicably, "we know old Kane. He's a hardy old fellow who's been too busy to make it in the hills for twenty years. The only thing against him is that he's been mixed up with Dustin."

"Wait a minute. I'll show you just how much I know about Kane and Dustin," Stone thrust a hand into his pocket, pulled out an envelope and flung it before Carr. The old ranchman opened it and read and his eyes bulged.

"For God's sake," he said sharply. "This letter is to me from my partner Gerald Keene. . . . Where'd you get this?" he demanded sharply.

"If you had this letter of introduction from my partner, why didn't you give it to me before this?"

"It's a letter recommending me for a job," said Stone coolly. "I got the job, so I didn't need the letter. If you're refused me the job, I'd have given you the letter."

"We've been trying for a long time to get you a job," said Carr. "We haven't been able to get his address. Can you give it to us?"

"Yes, I can tell you where to reach him. I will do better than that. I'll get you a job which will bring him home. In fact—"

Stone stopped short of disclosure.

Something might yet turn up that would make that disclosure premature. Better wait till the very last. It could always be done. He felt, too, that Carr might feel that he was a spy in their camp. He turned to Crewe.

"I'd like it understood," he said.

"I talked more to you than I have to Mr. Carr or even to Miss Edith. I found that notebook up in Red Water. You were the one who showed it to old man Kane and I don't know a thing about him. If he's a partner of Dustin, that damns him with me. You both know how I stand with Dustin. Myself, if you want to see to it, you can send a telegram to Keene that'll put him on the job as soon as he can get here."

"Get the horses," said Carr shortly.

"Crewell's ride with you."

In ten minutes Stone was back with the horses and they took off at a dead run that ate the miles. They came into Seco as the sun was dropping and during that ride Stone thought much but spoke little. It was time indeed, he felt, for him to take his own personality into account. He had been asked which to base a charge against Dustin. Sam Dustin was known throughout the valley. Men, even those who did not like him, would rather support him because that is the way of men. Carr, feeding Soda Springs, had shown much of the affection he formerly commanded. No. Decidedly this was no time to drop his disguise. Let them think he was Duro Stone till Gerald Keene should come.

"Let the other side do the talking," went on Crewe. "The man who takes most has got least excuse for what happened."

He rese, pocketed his pipe and strode into the house, and Stone went off to the bunk-house where he was greeted with a shower of hot water. Lee, who had been sent to straighten up the stables, came back incognito.

"Your damned saddle was all over the place, Duro," he said. "I shifted it to another peg."

He whispered something to Baines that Stone wrote his message and said it across the counter. That message simply said: "

"Come at once. Your services needed."

"How long till the party is at that address?" said Hoskins.

"I'll be at the Silver Dollar saloon at 10 o'clock. I'll be there to meet you," Stone said, pocketed his change and strode over toward the Silver Dollar with Crewe following him.

The Silver Dollar was the biggest and the worst-reputed in Seco and that night it was packed. Stone stepped right into the crowded room and realized at once that it was pay day, not only for the Broken Spur, but for a half-dozen others of the ranches above the valley. Roulette wheels, chuck-a-luck and faro game were wooden counter of the faro game straight at Stone and it hit him on the hand. He glanced up and saw that the "croupier" was a young girl. She was dressed in a maid's uniform and had a tray of cards lined up at the bar.

Crewe, talking to Benton, a stockman from Amargo, saw nothing and Stone never mentioned it for what he could come from only a girl.

He looked at the case keeper. A quick backward nod of her pretty head sent a wooden counter of the faro game straight at Stone and it hit him on the hand. He glanced up and saw that the "croupier" was a young girl. She was dressed in a maid's uniform and had a tray of cards lined up at the bar.

Crewe, talking to Benton, a stockman from Amargo, saw nothing and Stone never mentioned it for what he could come from only a girl.

He relaxed every muscle and waited for what was to come with eyes fixed carelessly on the long mirror behind Stone. At that mirror he saw Dustin's fumble under his left arm and the girl's eyes follow him. He reached forward his right hand and snatched the girl's tray of cards and cards and Mary Wilson who kept cases for him, studied the scene before her. From time to time she drove Stone to go to the bar, where Corse would shoot and it would be a plain case of self-defense. But Stone did no such thing.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his pocket and handed the empty gun to Dustin. "Put it away, boy. You're a damn dirty dog—Dustin. Next time we meet you to your braining."

The next instant he broke loose and ran for the door. The next ten minutes, Dustin, clawing wildly for Stone's eyes, was rocketed about the place. For ten wild minutes the faro table spun down the room on two legs and settled on its side amid the groans of the general. The crowd fired indiscriminately into the crowd from under it. For eight minutes the bartender kept up a barrage of bottles to cover his own retreat. At the end of that time Crewe, who knew nothing of the initial cause of the "ruckus", drew Stems aside.

He reed back from the vicious drunk that nearly carried in his ribs and the girl followed him. She knew that full glass, whisky so potent that it was said to make a rabbit spit in a bulldog's face," it burned into Corse's eyes. It burned like fire and stone. Dustin's eyes followed him and he stopped in his tracks. No. He had to go for his gun with his hand full of liquid hellfire. The next moment a steel-shod fist shot out and Corse went down across a cruiser. He half turned on his feet, swearing and wiping his eyes as he staggered across him and faced Dustin.

"Here," he broke the pistol that had snatched from Corse, dropped the cartridge into his

Arrowwood United Church

Rev. V. M. Gilbert, Minister
10:45 a.m. Church School
11:45 a.m. Morning Worship

"The Rich Church"
The Minister Will Preach

Church of the Brethren
Rev. John Wiesand, Pastor
10:30 a.m. — Sunday School
11:30 a.m. — Morning Worship
7:30 p.m. — Evening Service.

MRS. E. LEWENDON
Licensed Nursing Home
Moderate Rates
ARROWWOOD — ALTA.

It is better to have insurance and not need it, than to need it and not have it. See Omer Larsen

E. D. ARCHAMBAULT Barber — Arrowwood
Patronize Home Industry and Keep the Money in Our Own Town
arrowwood Barber Shop

O-K — RUBBER STAMPS
PROMPT SERVICE

New Body Lines and More Room in 1935 Ford V-8

The largest and roomiest cars Ford has ever built, with new body lines of advanced streamline design, are illustrated above in this Ford V-8 de luxe Tudor sedan for 1935. Sedans seat six passengers in comfort. Luxurious appointments are new. The eleven body types are all finished in new baked enamel which is said to need only washing to restore its high lustre. Cars are approximately eight inches longer from bumper to front fender, and with the new engine, which moves the engine forward more than eight inches and new spring suspension, add to riding comfort, especially of rear seat passengers. Directed-flow crankcase ventilation is an improvement of the 90 horsepower V-8 engine.

After a hard day's work, a bottle of will banish fatigue

There are no better beers than those made in Alberta. Obtainable at our Warehouses Vendor's Stores and your LOCAL HOTELS.

Distributors Limited

Agents for the Brewing Industry of Alberta

Phone 82

Bassano

and, or by the Government of the Province of Alberta.

by the Alberta Liquor Control Board. Advertisement is Not Inserted

Shouldice News

Shouldice school opened on Thursday, Jan. 3rd, after the Xmas holidays.

Miss Kennaugh, of the Shouldice School spent her Xmas holidays with her mother at Carseland.

What is wrong in Shouldice? — no card parties and no dances in the hall this past year. We all would like to see the good times come back that we used to have in our little hall.

The Shouldice people who attended the Queenstown U.F.A. bridge drive and dance were Mr. and Mrs. J. McRae, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Wattwood, Miss Kennaugh, Mrs. Webster and J. Taylor.

The annual school district meeting is to be held Jan. 26th. Here's hoping all the raters are out to hear the school report.

A few of the school children are home with colds.

On December 20th, the Shouldice School put on their Xmas Tree. The hall was crowded with children and grown-ups. Miss Kennaugh is to be congratulated on her splendid concern with so few children to work with. Santa was enjoyed by all—even if he was Santa's young son.

Mrs. Webster and J. Taylor spent the week-end before Xmas and Xmas in Calgary, turning on Thursday after Xmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Yuill and Ida May spent the week-end in Calgary, coming back to Gleichen at the home of Mrs. W. Service.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Edwards spent Xmas at home of Mrs. Edwards' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Watt.

Mr. H. Schmidt spent Xmas with friends in Hu-sar.

Friends of Mrs. Jean Yuill will be sorry to hear that she is confined to the Galt Hospital, Lethbridge, suffering from a broken hip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McRae and daughter Myrtle spent Xmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Heesketh; Arrowwood.

Additional Locals

On Monday, Dec. 31, 1934, Mr. Angus Ernest McCune of Irricana and Miss Phyllis Hazel Fisher, of Vulcan were joined in matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Wiesand at the Church of the Brethren parsonage, Arrowwood. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Marjorie Irving and Mr. Robert Fisher, brother of the bride, both of Vulcan. After visiting a few days with friends, the bridal couple will be at home on a farm at Irricana.

The fourth series of the Catfish Alley Society bridge and Whist drive was held on Wednesday Dec. 10. There were 6 tables of bridge and 4 of Whist. Those who got the prize were: Ladies first—Mrs. McRae. Men's first—Mr. Sharland. Ladies consolation—Mrs. White. Men's consolation—Mr. Taylor. Whist—Ladies' 1st Mrs. Johnson. Men's first—H. McCullough.

Ladies' consolation—Mrs. Lord. Men's consolation—Dan Vladar. The next will be Wednesday Jan. 16.

The Scout-Guide Toyshop has just completed its second year of operation. About 80 toys were collected, repaired and distributed in the Arrowwood district. The Scouts were kindly permitted the use of the basement of the Cliford home for the soldering, painting, etc., while the work allotted to the Guides was carried out in patrol groups in different homes. Headquarters were at the Weinhomes.

The leaders hope to obtain the use of a central shop next year as in this way the children can all work together and receive proper instruction. The sight of these youngsters doing a good turn for others less fortunate, children and the whole hundred ways they go about it is a lesson in good will that the older people might well witness.

Queenstown Items

The annual Xmas Concert was held in the hall on Friday Dec. 23. The program opened with the singing of "O Canada" after which an operetta was put on by the Junior members of the school. The children were all dressed in paper dresses to represent flowers. Betty Vinje took part in Valley Lilly and was to marry Johnny Jumpup who took the part of the bridegroom. This was greatly enjoyed by the large audience.

A play was put on by the High School which was also enjoyed.

The program ended with Santa Claus who came down the chimney and distributed the gifts.

Mrs. Kingsmith of Calgary visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. Taggart during the holidays.

Miss B. McLaughlin of Crowfoot spent Xmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. McLaughlin.

Mrs. H. White arrived home from Saskatoon, and was accompanied by her daughter Marlene and Mr. O. Jones.

The chicken pox epidemic is on the wain. No new cases have been reported in the last week.

A bridge party was held in McClellan store Thursday Dec. 27. Prize winners were Mr. and Mrs. A. Soli and Wm. McCrae.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Sloan spent Xmas with their daughter Mrs. G. Burke of Duchess.

Word has reached town that Mr. Halvor Highland is improving and his many friends look for his quick recovery.

TRAIN SCHEDULE AT GLEICHEN

No. 1 Westbound	5:55 P.M.
No. 2 Westbound	8:45 A.M.
No. 2 Eastbound	4:31 P.M.
No. 4 Eastbound	7:05 P.M.

ARROWWOOD

Westbound, Tues., Thurs., 1 pm
East bound, Wed., Fri., 1:30 pm

From Wagon to Sea-Board —

“Fair and Efficient dealing is the All Standard of Service.”

The ALBERTA PACIFIC GRAIN COMPANY LTD.
INCORPORATED AND OWNED WITH THE BOARD OF GRAIN COMMISSIONERS

Hockey Notes

(Continued from page 1)
Summer — 1st period — S. Beagle (Oliver), Norton, Webber and Oliver 2 min.

2nd period — S. Beagle (Oliver), McCullough (Mason), McCullough (Beagle), McCullough (Mason), McCullough (Mason), S. Beagle (Oliver), Webber and Oliver 2 min.

3rd period — Oliver (Aschstine) Norton, Norton.

Referee — H. Norton.

last for the second time this season. Mason, Norton and Beagle scored for the Cards and goalie Hanson had practice chance to save on each of the 4 occasions. Sharpe, of the Cards collected his third successive shut-out of the season.

The Cardinals clicked together as a unit Tuesday night and vanquished the Bassano Bears 5-1. The Bears were fast skaters and displayed a brazen attack which kept the Arrowwood boys working hard at all times. A large crowd of fans were on hand when the first period was started. Play was slow at first but Everett Mason, playing his first game as forward, beat the Bearcat goal with a hot shot. The Bears pulled even however before the period ended when the locals failed to clear. In the second period the Cards tallied twice on goals by E. Mason and C. Norton. The Bassano goalies collected 4 goals in this period when struck by the puck. McCullough and F. Mason collected two goals in the third period to end the scoring. Sharpe played his regular good game in the goal. C. Beagle and N. Dumka presented a strong defence, while Bob Oliver and S. Beagle were effective throughout the entire game.

Milo 0—Arrowwood 9

Milo fans proved their loyal support when they turned out in full force Friday night last to see their newly organized hockey club in action for the first time this year. Although the Cardinals proved their superiority on the evenings play, the Milo boys have the material and before the season finishes no doubt the Milo boys will have developed into a fast aggregation. The Milo boys skate well, have the weight and with practise the team will give a good account of themselves. The Arrowwood hockey club are very grateful to the Milo enthusiasts for the excellent sportsmanship shown by them and the players.

Mossleigh 0—Arrowwood 4
The Cardinals vanquished the boys to the west Saturday

In accordance with an amendment to the Canada Grain Act passed by the 1933 session of the Parliament of Canada, separate grades will be established for Game Wheat, effective August 1, 1935.

All farmers should have this in mind in preserving and procuring seed for the sowing of their 1935 wheat crop.

FEDERAL GRAIN LIMITED

WAGIN' TUNG

Vol. 4, No. 20. Arrowwood, Jan. 10, 1935. Items for That

The new Ford V-8 for 1935, presenting a new conception of beauty and comfort in the modern automobile is announced by your local dealer

Larsen Implements

“House of Service”
Good Equipment Makes a Good Farmer Better
ARROWWOOD and MOSSLEIGH